

Article: Vineyard Computing

Team: Aisha Kongo, Christine Schantz, James Anderson, Ignacio Pérez.

Outline

Find a new directions and new topics that pervasive computing and sensor networks might address to support a broader range of users.

Particularly, the reading is interested in the implications of sensor network design and research arising from user needs and the structure of work activities in production environments, by using ethnographic research methods.