1. PROJECT IDEA UPDATE

Now that you have had a chance to present your project to the class and receive feedback in class, we would like you to integrate that feedback and rethink your project idea and scope. In reassessing, rescoping, and redesigning your project, please keep in mind the questions from the last assignment, all the feedback you have received, and our expectation that you will design, build, test, iterate, and present a working digital media application prototype by the end of the course. Working with your team members:

- List your project goals as a set of bullet points (no more than three)
- Create a new brief 1 paragraph project description of your revised project idea
- Point out what you have changed in your project as a set of additional bullet points
- Make sure your redesign team understands and agrees with your new goals
